

Dreaming True

ROBERT MOSS

It is not enough to be able to drop your body as easily as a bathrobe, take flight like the eagle, enter the hollow hills, talk with angels, and dance among the stars.

We must make the return.

We must live in this world and be gardens
for the dreams that want to take root in it.